

Miso Peanut Ramen Bowls

Author: Lindsay Total Time: 35 minutes Yield: 4 servings 1x

A sweet and creamy savory broth ladled into bowls with noodles, crispy crumbled tofu, and fresh veg! These ramen bowls are SO GOOD.

INGREDIENTS

UNITS US M SCALE 1/2x 1x 2x

Crispy Tofu Bits:

- 1 block extra firm tofu (I like the high protein tofu from Trader Joe's, but any firm tofu will work)
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 59 ml teriyaki (I use Bachan's Japanese BBQ sauce)
- 1 clove garlic, grated

Miso Peanut Ramen:

- 1 tablespoon red curry paste or roasted red chili paste
- 1 tablespoon white miso
- 1-2 tablespoons peanut butter (just a little plop)
- 2 tablespoons reduced sodium soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- 356 ml water + 1 1/2 teaspoons Better Than Bouillon roasted chicken or vegetable base (sub 1 1/2 cups chicken or vegetable broth)
- 1 (14-ounce) can full fat coconut milk
- 178 ml uncooked ramen noodles (two 3-ounce packets, just the noodles)

Toppings:

- Finely sliced cucumbers
- Cilantro and/or green onion
- Chili crisp

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Prep Tofu: Press tofu with paper towels to remove some of the water. Grate tofu on a box grater, on medium / large holes.
2. Crisp Tofu: Heat olive oil in a nonstick skillet over medium-high heat. Add the tofu shreds; saute until golden and lightly crisped (it usually takes me 10-15 minutes to really get it to have some crispy / chewy texture).
3. Sauce Tofu: Add the teriyaki sauce and grated garlic to the “thirsty” tofu. Sauté for another 5-10 minutes to caramelize further. Add 1-2 tablespoons more sauce as desired. Transfer to a separate bowl and wipe out the pan.
4. Make Ramen Broth: In the same pan, heat the curry paste, miso, peanut butter, soy sauce, and brown sugar until it’s worked into a thick paste. Add the coconut milk and broth, and whisk until incorporated. Simmer for 5-10 minutes until slightly thickened and creamy.
5. Ramen: Meanwhile, boil ramen in a separate pot for 3-4 minutes; drain, and add to sauce. Simmer 1-2 minutes until the noodles are well-coated (and add more broth if you want it to be more soupy).
6. Serve: Transfer noodles into in bowls, and pour a scoop of the broth over the top. Top with the tofu, herbs, and chili crisp on top. She's so yummy!

NOTES

Ramen: You can use just about any type of noodles for this recipe. I’ve used regular ramen, brown rice ramen, rice noodles, etc. I suggest for 6-7 ounces of noodles for this amount of sauce. For the most consistent results I would boil the noodles separately until just cooked, then draining and folding into the sauce, to avoid things getting overly thick and sticky.

An Option: If you want to save yourself a pot to wash, you can add the ramen directly to the sauce and let it cook in there. But you’ll need 2 cups broth instead of 1.5 cups, to make sure there’s enough liquid to cook the noodles. This method does not work with rice ramen, only regular wheat-based ramen.

Better Than Bouillon: Using this broth base dissolved into water, instead of regular broth, has a HUGE impact on the flavor. It just tastes way better. Highly recommend using this for your broth if you have it / can find it! I keep a jar in my fridge at all times!

Other Proteins: This would also work with ground chicken instead of tofu.

Leftovers: The noodles will absorb some of the broth as it sits in the fridge, so you can add a little water to loosen it up after reheating if you want it saucier / brothier.
